

COLLNET

Extra Session, July 28, 2005

09.00-10:30 Chair: Hiltrun Kretschmer

Patterns of co-authorship: Statistical, philosophical, and sociological implications
Donald deB. Beaver

Examining technological collaboration through patent analysis: Case study of some emerging economies
Sujit Bhattacharya and S. C. Sharma

Co-authorship on management science in China
Chen Yue, Liu Zeyuan

10.30-11:00 Coffee break with posters*

11.00-12:30 Chair: Ronald Rousseau

Evaluation of collaboration between European universities using dynamic interaction between multiple sources
Jean-Charles Lamirel

Visibility of collaboration between immunology institutions on the web including aspects of gender studies
Hiltrun Kretschmer, Ute Kretschmer, Theo Kretschmer

Higher education and research collaboration between Iran and UK
Farideh Osareh

12.30-13:30 Lunch

13.30-15:00 Chair: Jean-Charles Lamirel

Is it worthwhile to make cooperation with Central Asia?
Ülle Must

Collaboration and distances between German immunological institutes
Frank Havemann, Michael Heinz, Hiltrun Kretschmer

Collaboration in social science research in India
S.L. Sangam and Keshava

15.00-15:30 Coffee break with posters*

15.30-16:30 Chair: Ülle Must

Co-activity and collaboration in emerging nano-science and technology: Are there gatekeepers linking research and technical development?

Martin Meyer

Regional collaboration in S&T among South Asian countries

B. M. Gupta

16.30-17:00 Chair: Shabhat Husain

COLLNET Round Table Discussion (Opening: Hiltrun Kretschmer)

* Posters

Why collaborate? Scientist's semantic meaning of 'international collaboration' at the National University of México

Galán Díaz, Carlos Roberto, Liberman Shkolnikoff Sofía

Q-measures for binary divided networks: an application in informetrics

Ronald Rousseau

Cooperation behaviour of German medical faculties 1993-2001

Johannes Stegmann, Guenter Grohmann